M. F. A. HOLDS LIVELY MEET

PROPOSAL FOR FARM UNION CAUSES HOT DEBATE.

BACK TO FARM CLUBS

Convention Decides Not to Take Final Action.—Financial Report Shows Surplus.

One hundred farmers of Nodaway County, members of the Nodaway County Missouri Farmers Association, met in a turbulent session this afternoon in their annual convention in the circuit court room of the courthouse.

The meeting had been called for the purpose of electing officers and also to vote on the proposed constitution of the United Farmers of Nodaway county, which, if passed by the three dominant farm organizations, would mean a partial unification of the M. F. A., Farm Bureau and Farmers Union.

The executive board of the M. F. A. which met this morning, drew up a resolution to be submitted to the M. F. A. in convention to ascertain the sentiment of the county M. F. A. toward the merger but to refer the proposition back to the farm clubs for final decision, a majority vote being necessary for merger.

This procedure was adopted at the convention and was followed by heated discussions when the constitution of the proposed merged farmers organization was read article by article.

The meeting was thrown into confusion even before the articles were read when John Dowden offered a motion to table the matter until after the annual meeting of the state Missouri Farmers Association. Mr. Dowden withdrew his motion when it was explained that a final vote would not be taken today but would be referred to the individual farm clubs.

A resolutions committee was appointed, consisting of W. J. Wygal, O. K. Smith and Ed Fannon.

Miles Spargur, secretary-treasurer, read his annual report which showed that the M. F. A., showed a balance of $39.87 on hand today, as compared to a deficit of $174.31 a year ago. His report showed that $764 was paid in for 1927 dues. The total receipts for the year were $988.08 and disbursements $948.21.

Mr. Spargur said that in his field work during the last year he visited thirty-six schoolhouses at club meetings, assisted in organizing four new clubs but two are not listed because dues have not been sent in. The new clubs listed are Plum Grove and Elmo Farm Club. The M. F. A. took over the Elmo Exchange during the year.

Emmett Sallee of Harrison county, field man for the state M. F. A. in twenty-two northern Missouri counties, gave a short talk, stressing co-operation.

The farm clubs and number of representatives from each at the convention today:

Bedison, 6; Bloomdale, 5; Elm Grove 2; Fairview, 1; Fryer, 2; Gaynor, 1; Knabb, 1; Lutsten, 12; Lathrop, 2; LaBelle, 3; Morning View, 7; Munkres, 7; Myrtle Tree, 6; Oak Hill, 3; Plum Grove, 3; Pickering, 1; Progressive, 3; Riverside, 3; Ravenwood, 2; Trego, 8; White Oak, 2; Whiteford, 4 and White Hall, 2.

Roy Lippman enrolled as a new member this afternoon.

Iowa Group Endorses Hoover for President

90 Per Cent of Delegates to State Convention, However, Favor Lowden.

Des Moines, Ia., Mar. 7.—A resolution endorsing Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for President was adopted by a group of delegates to the Republican State convention today.

Des Moines, Ia., Mar. 7.—In a scathing denunciation of the administration for alleged failure to keep its 1924 farm relief pledges M. J. Tobin, Vinton, Ia., pleaded for united support for former Governor Frank O. Lowden's presidential candidacy in opening the Iowa state Republican convention here today. More than 90 per cent of the delegates to the convention were pledged to Lowden.

"President Coolidge, aided, abetted and advised by the two outstanding members of his cabinet, has failed to keep the party's saered promise of farm relief," Tobin said.

A CHANCE FOR THE SPELLERS

COUUNTY CONTEST TO BE HELD NEXT MONDAY

IN THREE DIVISIONS

Winners in High School, Elementary and Rural Classes to Compete for District Honors

A Nodaway county spelling contest will be held in Maryville on Monday March 12, at the State Teachers College, it was announced today by Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools.

Mr. Somerville earlier had announced that unless there were a demand for it, there would be no county spelling contest, preliminary to the district contest to be held March 16. His announcement today followed a request from the Gaynor and Harmony high and elementary schools, and also the Carter rural school, west of Wilcox, asking that a county elimination contest be held.

The winners Monday will be eligible for the district contest the following Friday.

Any other districts which care to enter may do so with not more than two contestants for each section, high school, elementary and rural.

The county contest will begin promptly at 9:30 o'clock.

Words from Newspapers

The word list will be prepared by the superintendent. The words will be selected from Missouri newspapers, exclusive of periodicals and magazines, and this list will not be available for contestants. This ruling is in accordance with the rules of the state and district contest. The same word list will be used in each of the three divisions.

Only regular students in high school may enter the high school contest. This excludes all persons holding a diploma certifying graduation from high school. No pupil may enter the elementary or rural contest who holds a diploma certifying graduation from the grade school. All consolidated districts with rural schools and the so-called Job schools may be classified in the high school group, and the grade schools compete as elementary schools. In any district where high school work is offered, the grade school must compete as elementary schools. Winners of first place in the district contest last year will be barred from the contest in the same respective divisions this year.

Two contestants in each division from each school may enter the county contest. The names of first and second winners in each division of the county contest will be mailed to the leader in the district contest. The second winner may enter in case the first winner is unable to attend.

Will Be Written

The county contest will be a written contest.

The following rules were announced:

All applicants will be given numbers. These numbers will be the only identification marks on the papers of the contestants.

A short list of not more than twenty-five words will be announced as preliminary exercise before the contest proper begins.

Only contestants with the pronouncer and county superintendent will be permitted in the room while contest is in progress.

Rank of contestants will be determined on the percentage of words spelled correctly. No one will be eliminated until 400 words have been spelled in groups of fifty words per list. In case of tie, additional lists of 50 words will be given to the entire group until winner is determined on percentage basis.

The new International dictionary 1927 edition will be the standard for correct spelling of words.

Capitals Don't Count

No one will be eliminated because of the misuse of capital letters.

Doubtful formation of letters will be counted against contestants.

All papers written by contestants are to kept by committees, but pupils may see the words they misspelled at close of contest. No papers to be taken from room.

Coolidge Prosperity Statement Defended

Senator Smoot Conditions at Time of Message Justified Report.—a Decline Since.

Washington, March 7. — President Coolidge's statement that "wages are high and employment plentiful" was defended today by Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah.

Smoot replied to the charge made by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, earlier this week that the President misrepresented employment conditions in his message to Congress.

"President Coolidge's message was written in December," Smoot said. "Conditions at that time and in preceding months fully justified his report on employment.

"Since then it is true there has been a decline."

Reverse Action on Naming Farm Board

House Committee Votes, 11 to 10, to Let President Name Its Members.

Washington, March 7.—The House agriculture committee, reversing its action of yesterday, voted today to allow the President to appoint, directly, members of the federal farm board which would be created by the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

By a vote of 11 to 10, the committee defeated an amendment by Representative Kincheloe, Democrat, Kentucky, adopted yesterday which would have permitted farm organizations to submit to the President a list of suggested nominees for the farm board.

The committee continued consideration of the McNary-Haugen bill today in executive session.

THE TRUTH OF CAVELL DEATH

GERMAN DOCTOR PICTURES EXECUTION OF ENGLISH NURSE.

"GLAD TO GIVE LIFE"

"Other Women Sacrificed More," World War Heroine Said.— Aided Prisoners' Escape.

EDITORS NOTE: The following article by Frederick Kuh, United Press staff correspondent, contains the first complete eye-witness account of the heroic death before a German firing squad of Nurse Edith Cavell, who gave her life for her country during the World War. Dr. Gottfried Benn, German Army Medical officer detailed to witness the execution, describes in detail the manner of her execution, and corrects the many conflicting versions that have gone before.

By Frederick Kuh
United Press Staff Correspondent

Berlin, Mar. 7.—The death before a German firing squad of Edith Cavell, British World War nurse, was described for the first time in all its dramatic detail today by the German doctor who witnessed her execution for helping prisoners to escape.

"A brave daughter of a great nation," the army physician—Dr. Gottfried Benn—called Miss Cavell in telling the story in the newspaper Acht-Urh-Abendblatt.

He told how she walked unflinchingly to the execution place, said she was glad to die for England, and received twelve bullets in her heart and lungs.

Breaks 10-Year Silence.

Dr. Benn broke a ten-year silence to help clear up the controversy that followed the banning, by the British government, of a motion picture film purporting to describe Miss Cavell's execution. The view was taken that the portrayal received bad feeling between Britons and Germans.

Dr. Benn was medical officer at the German headquarters in Brussels during the war. He attended, in an official capacity, both the trial and execution of the British nurse. After she had fallen before the bullets of the firing squad, it was his duty to examine her body and certify her death.

This is his story:

"I received orders to go by motor to a destination known only to the chauffeur. At dawn, we arrived at the shooting range at Brussels, where a company of infantry lined a path leading to the wall where two platoons of twelve men each—the firing parties—were waiting.

Belgian Executed Also.

"We waited for some time and then another car arrived in which was a Belgian named Broque who had been senteneed to die for complicity in the Cavell case.

"Broque nonchalantly went to a place indicated to him, and, standing between two white poles, doffed his cap to the firing squad drawn up before him. He bade them 'good morning' and then said:

"'In the face of death, we are comrades.'

"The officer in charge of the firing party, fearing that the man was going to make a provocative speech, interrupted. Broque then stood silent and erect.

"Another car arrived in which were nurse Cavell and a priest. She was dressed in a blue tailor-made costume with a small hat. Her face was like a mask, but she nevertheless walked without hesitation toward the place between the two poles where the Belgian stood.

"She stopped for a moment to tell the Priest:

"'I am glad to be dying for England. Other women are sacrificing more—husbands, brothers, sons. I have only my own life to give.'

Death Instantaneous.

"She asked the Priest to send a last message from her to her mother and to her brothers who were serving with the British army in France.

"The final scenes were over quickly. The firing squad presented arms and the Military Judge read the verdict of the court which had found the accused guilty. Both the Englishwoman and Belgian were blindfolded and each was tied to a pole.

"At a single word of command, both platoons fired from a distance of a couple of yards. Broque's body sagged, but for a few moments the Englishwoman remained upright. Like the Belgian, however, she had been killed instantaneously, receiving twelve bullets which had pierced her heart and lungs.

Wilbur Strikes Back at Foes of Big Navy

Department Asks Fewer Ships and Less Tonnage Than Britain Is Building, He Says.

Bay City, Mich., Mar. 7.—Secretary of Navy Wilbur struck back at critics of the Administration's 74-ship Naval building program in a speech to the McKinley Republican Club here last night.

He asserted it was Congress' constitutional duty to provide "adequate" auxiliary surface craft.

He denied the navy was "lobbying" or "propagandizing" for the large construction program and asked pointedly:

"Why should our announcement that we intend to build fewer ships and less tonnage than Great Britain has announced she must build for her protection be considered as provocative? Why is it that some of our citizens feel Britain is to be trusted with large naval programs rather than the United States, with similar or smaller programs?"

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION CHOOSES SMITH OVER WALSH.

LOWDEN NOT OPPOSED

Republicans Also Endorse Dawes as Vice-President.—Chief Development in Midwest.

EDITOR'S NOTE.—The following story, the third of a series of political reviews by United Press Staff Correspondents throughout the country, deals with the Middle West.

Chicago, Mar 7.—South Dakota's selection of national convention delegates pledged to former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and Al Smith of New York was the only outstanding political development of the week in the near Northwest and the Great Lakes States.

South Dakota Republicans endorsed Vice-President Charles G. Dawes for re-election, and the Democrats approved Governor Dan Moody of Texas for the Vice-Presidency.

Lowden returned to Illinois from a vacation in Arizona, enthusiastic over fishing and horseback riding, but noncommital on politics. Many observers believed, however, that his return heralded greater activity by his supporters. He is unopposed for the Republican nomination in Illinois; Already is definitely assured of the entire Iowa delegation; and seems certain of the support of North Dakota.

Norris Unopposed in Wisconsin.

Senator George Norris of Nebraska was left without opposition for the support of Wisconsin delegates, when Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover was granted permission to withdraw his name, which had been filed without his consent.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was the only Democrat formally entered in Wisconsin, but slates of delegates favorable to Governor Al Smith of New York and Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana were filed.

Three candidates for the Presidency were expected to file in Indiana before the lists closed, but they belonged to different parties. Senator James Watson, Republican, already has announced his candidacy. Evans Woolen, Indianapolis banker and protege of Tom Taggart, will file for the Democratic nomination and John Zahud, Indianapolis, is a candidate of the National party on a tax reform platform. Washington reports indicated Herbert Hoover might enter the race at the last minute.

Illinois Campaign Picks Up.

State campaign in Illinois gained impetus, with the primaries only a little more than a month away. Secretary of State Louis Emmerson and Otis F. Glenn, candidates for governor and senator, respectively, on the so-called Lowden-DeNeen ticket, were engaged in a state-wide speaking tour, lending each other support. Governor Len Small, seeking renomination, and Frank L. Smith, who resigned as senator-elect and immediately was named senator-designate, have not campaigned actively.

Unless Hoover entered the Indiana primary, it seemed unlikely that any state in this territory would provide a real contest for presidential endorsement. The best chance for a fight was among the Democratic candidates in Wisconsin in recent elections that the contest meant little.

BACK POLICY IN NICARAGUA

SENATE COMITTEE MEMBERS VOTE 'NO' ON WITHHDRAWAL

ACTION IS UNANIMOUS

Wants Marines Out, But U. S. Can't Recall Them Until After Election, Borah Says

Washington, arch 7—The Senate foreign relations committee voted unanimously today in favor of continuing the Marine occupation of Nicaragua. The expression of policy was made in a decision directing Chairman Borah to report adversely to the Senate the Heflin resolution which would have directed President Coolidge to withdraw the marines.

Borah declared later in a statement that the United States had sent marines to Nicaragua to guarantee a fair election and that the Republican and Democratic members of the committee believed the marines should remain until the election is held.

"Speaking for myself, I want to see us get out of Nicaragua and stay out," Borah said, "but I know of no way to do so decently and with justice to all parties except to hold that election."

Can't Withdraw Now

"To withdraw at this time not only would leave the entire machinery of the election absolutely in the hands of the conservatives, but would leave the Liberals perfectly helpless to protect themselves either in the election or against the violence of their antagonists," Borah continued.

"Whatever may be our views with regard to matters transpiring prior to the Stimson agreement, the agreement places an obligation on us which we cannot at this time escape. I think the entire committee would like to see us get out of Nicaragua. If we could hold a fair election and recognize the government resulting from that election, there would be some chance of getting out and staying out.

"It is my judgment that the Liberals constitute 75 or 80 per cent of the people of Nicagagua, and I believe that if a fair election is held, the Liberals will succeed. Backed up by the people of Nicaragua and by our recoguition, there is a hope of stability."

Sharp Earth Shocks Felt in Lower Italy

Several Deaths Reported and Panic-Stricken People Spend Night In Open.

Rome, March 7.—Sharp earthquake shocks in lower Italy and along the Sicilian coast today were reported to have caused several deaths and sent inhabitants of the affected district panic-stricken to spend the night in the open.

Communication with some towns in the affected area was interrupted and news of the severity of damage there was so far unobtainable.

The shock at Messina was the strongest since the one that in 1098 levelled the town.

Messina is just across the strait of Messina in Sicily from the affected area in the "toe" of the Italian boot.

Extensive damage was caused at Messina, but no casualties were reported. Along the Sicilian east coast, south of Messina, shocks were reported without damage.

Coolidge Refusal to Intervene Is Told

Washington, Mar. 7.—President Coolidge refused to intervene in the Bituminous Coal Industry in 1925, when large operators started abrogating their contracts. President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers told the Senate interstate commerce committee today.

Lewis read a letter he wrote to the President appealing for federal intervention and the President's reply, deploring renunciation of contracts but refusing to act.

Neither of the letters was made public until today when the Senate committee started its hearings on conditions in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

Coolidge Endorsed.

Pierre, S. D., Mar. 7.—South Dakota Republicans will support the presidential candidacy of Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, while Democrats of South Dakota will throw their strength behind Governor Al Smith of New York.

State conventions of both parties endorsed their respective party candidates yesterday.

Lowden's endorsement was unanimous, there being no opposition candidate. Governor Smith, however, won control of the state Democratic delegation over the candidacy of Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana. Senator Walsh was defeated on the first ballot.

The Republican convention enthusiastically endorsed the "integrity, honesty and manhood" of President Coolidge. Other pledges were rigid enforcement of state and national prohibition laws, continuation of the "fight to bring agriculture to a parity with that of industry" and support of the Capper-Johnson bill for conscription of wealth as well as men in time of war.

The Democrats in their platform demanded farm relief legislation and pledges rigid enforcement of national and state laws.

Kansas for Curtis.

Wichita, Kan., Mar. 7.—Kansas Republicans were prepared today to let the political world know they believe Senator Charles Curtis is a strong presidential candidate.

Probably among the most flattering endorsements ever given at a political convention here yesterday. From the opening speech, which dealt principally with Kansas' contribution to the presidential race—Curtis—until the close of the meeting, delegates showed themselves favorable to the Curtis campaign.

As the convention opened an attempt was made to replace at least one of the seven delegates-at-large selected by Curtis. The attempt failed when a vote was taken on Curtis' slate as a group. One delegate of more than 1,000 in attendance voted against the group.

"It is untrue that she received the coupe de grace (a finishing shot from an officer's pistol fired when there is doubt regarding death).

Burial Place Secret.

"I immediately went to the pole to which her body was tied and felt for her pulse. When I found that she was dead I closed her eyes.

"I assisted in placing her in a small yellow coffin. She was immediately interred at a place which had been kept secret.

"I am not attempting to correct the legend which has grown up around Nurse Cavell. I want only to tell what I remember; and I remember her as an active woman who paid for her deeds as a brave daughter of a great nation."

Of Miss Cavell's trial, Dr. Benn said that he heard Miss Cavell admit that the organization she had formed to help "The Enemy"—the Allies—had smuggled 300 soldiers and Belgian civilians across the Dutch frontier.

Dr. Benn added that, although she was betrayed by various accomplices at the trial, Nurse Cavell remained reserved and calm.

STATE ENGINEERS TURN TO LOCATING OF ROADS

CONSTRUCTION SLOWS

Right-of-Ways for Rest of Highway System to Be Secured By Close of 1928

Jefferson City, Mo., March 7—Surveys and location of additional proposed highways over the state is to be one of the principal activities of the State Highway Department this year, according to T. H. Cutler, chief engineer. Much of the highway force already have been transferred to this department as a result of slowing down of active construction work, Cutler said.

This work was started last year when the rate of construction work began falling off. Plans and estimates were prepared for 53 primary and 105 secondary projects during 1927. Plans have been arranged to permit completing all surveys and plans, and securing right-of-way for the unconstructed portions of our system by the close of 1928, Cutler said.

"With our 7,600 mile half completed and its rate of completion slowed down materially from what it has been in the last three years, we are faced with an insistent and growing demand for a more rapid completion of this system," Cutler declared.

"To take care of this situation, and traffic congestion near our large cities, a bond issue in the form of a constitutional amendment is necessary if our entire road system is not to be seriously hindered," he said. "We cannot hope to keep our road construction abreast the increase in automobile traffic under the pay-as-you-go-system."

Many phases of highway improvement, other than construction work, is being undertaken by the highway department this year, Cutler pointed out. "For example," he said "we must let contracts for the night signalization of U. S. No. 40 and U. S. No. 50 across the state. If this night signalization is as efficient in according comfort and safety in night driving as we anticipate, additional through routes will be selected for a continuation of the service."

Elimination of grade crossings is nearing completion. Approximately 300 grade crossings have been removed by the highway department in cooperation with railroads. Only one grade crossing is left on No. 36 and one on No. 40, Cutler said.

Last year $2,577,112 was allotted to general maintenance. This figure included general patrols, garage operation, markers, signs, bridge maintenance, flood repair work, snow equipment, and similar work, Cutler said.

Mrs. Glenn Guthrie and son, Garman, Mrs. John Lockhart and Mrs. V. A. Guthrie motored to St. Joseph today.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Weaver of Maitland were in town on business yesterday.

Radio Station WOS Closed to Candidates

Numerous Letters Complain It Gives Unfair Advantage to Present Office Holders

Jefferson City, Mo., March 7—Radio programs over WOS, located in the dome of the State Capitol, have been rearranged to exclude all candidates for public office, according to C. P. Anderson, state marketing commissioner and director of the station.

Anderson several months ago opened the station to all candidates of both parties. The privilege had not been used generally except by those already holding state office here and running for re-election. Numerous letters from both parties complained of this as an unfair advantage, Anderson said.

"Owing to the fact that state officers, both Democratic and Republican, are candidates for state offices, and that WOS has been featuring talks from the heads of different departments, and the further fact that other candidates who do not hold a state office do not have an equal opportunity to talk over WOS, Anderson has decided that no candidate, neither local, state or national, will be permitted to broadcast over WOS, the announcement said.'

"This, however, the announcement continued, "does not necessarily hold good for state or national conventions as these will be considered separate and apart and will be given due consideration if WOS is asked to broadcast conventions."

THE STORY THUS FAR

The jewel case was most baffling to Vance. It had been opened with a steel chisel after unsuccessfully being pried with a poker, and it was found in the room with the murdered Margaret Odell. Spotswoode had gone out with her the evening of the murder. When he left her he told Jessup, at the switchboard, to call a cab. They heard a scream from her room, but when they reached the door were told everything was all right. The next morning she had been found strangled. Vance believes another man was in the apartment beside the murderer and that he hid in the closet. Cleaver is questioned and gives an alibi. But he mentions Dr. Lindquist as a possible source of information.

CHAPTER 18

(Tuesday, September 11; 9 p. m.)

Ten minutes later we were ringing the bell of a stately old brownstone house in East 44th Street.

A resplendently comparisoned butler opened the door, and Markham presented his card.

"Take this to the doctor at once, and say that it's urgent."

"The doctor is just finishing dinner," the stately seneschal informed him; and conducted us into a richly furnished reception-room, with deep comfortable chairs, silken draperies and subdued lights.

"A typical gynecologist's seraglio," observed Vance, looking around. "I'm sure the pasha himself is a majestic and elegant personage."

The prediction proved true. Doctor Lindquist entered the room a moment later inspecting the district attorney's card as if it had been a cuneiform inscription whose import he could not quite decipher.

He was a tall man in his late forties, with bushy hair and eyebrows, and a complexion abnormally pale. His face was long, and, despite the asymmetry of his features, he might easily have been called handsome. He was in dinner clothes and he carried himself with the self-conscious precision of a man unduly impressed with his own importance. He seated himself at a kidney shaped desk of carved mahogany, and lifted his eyes with polite inquiry to Markham.

"To what am I indebted for the honor of this call?" he asked in a studiously melodious voice, lingering over each word caressingly. "You are most fortunate to have found me in," he added, before Markham could speak. "I confer with patients only by appointment." One felt that he experienced a certain humiliation at having received us without elaborate ceremonial preliminaries.

Markham, whose nature was opposed to all circumlocution and pretense, came direct to the point.

"This isn't a professional consultation doctor; but it happens that I want to speak to you about one of your former patients—A Miss Margaret Odell."

Doctor Lindquist regarded the gold paper-weight before him with vacantly reminiscent eyes.

"Ah, yes. Miss Odell. I was just reading of her violent end. A most unfortunate and tragic affair . . . . In just what way can I be of service to you?—You understand, of course, that the relationship between a physician and his patient is one of sacred confidence——"

"I understand that thoroughly," Markham assured him abruptly. "On the other hand, it is the sacred duty of every citizen to assist the authorities in bringing a murderer to justice. And if there is anything you can tell me which will help toward that end, I shall certainly expect you to tell me."

The doctor raised his hand slightly in polite protestation.

"I shall, of course, do all I can to assist you, if you will but indicate your desires."

"There's no need to beat about the bush, doctor," said Markham. "I know that Miss Odell was a patient of yours for a long time; and I realize that it is highly possible, not to say probable, that she told you certain personal things which may have direct bearing on her death."

"But, my dear Mr.—"—Doctor Lindquist glanced ostentatiously at the card—"ah—Markham, my relations with Miss Odell were of a purely professional character."

"I had understood, however," ventured Markham, "that, while what you say may be technically true, nevertheless there was an informality, let me say, in that relationship. Perhaps I may state it better by saying that your professional attitude transcended a merely scientific interest in her case."

I heard Vance chuckle softly; and I myself could hardly suppress a smile at Markham's verbose and orbicular accusation. But Doctor Lindquist, it seemed, was in no wise disconcerted. Assuming an air of beguiling pensiveness, he said:

"I will confess, in the interests of strict accuracy, that during my somewhat protracted treatment of her case, I came to regard the young woman with a certain—shall I say, fatherly liking? But I doubt if she was even aware of this mild sentiment on my part."

The corners of Vance's mouth twitched slightly. He was sitting with drowsy eyes, watching the doctor with a look of studious amusement.

"And she never at any time told you of any private or personal affairs that were causing her anxiety?" persisted Markham.

Doctor Lindquist pyramided his fingers, and appeared to give the question his undivided thought.

"No, I can't recall a single statement of that nature." His words were measured and urbane. "I know, naturally, in a general way, her manner of living; but the details, you will readily perceive, were wholly outside my province as a medical consultant. The disorganization of her nerves was due—so my diagnosis led me to conclude—to late hours, excitement, irregular and rich eating—what, I believe, is referred to vulgarly as going the pace. The modern woman, in this febrile age, sir——"

"When did you see her last, may I ask?" Markham interrupted impatiently.

The doctor made a pantomime of eloquent surprise.

"When did I see her last?. . . . Let me see." He could, apparently, recall the occasion with considerable difficulty. "A fortnight ago, perhaps—though it may have been longer. I really can't recall. . . . Shall I refer to my files?"

"That won't be necessary," said Markham. He paused, and regarded the doctor with a look of disarming affability. "And was this last visit a paternal or merely a professional one?"

"Professional, of course." Doctor Lindquist's eyes were impassive and only mildly interested; but his face, I felt, was by no means the unedited reflection of his thoughts.

"Did the meeting take place here or at her apartment?"

"I believe I called on her at her home"

"You called on her a great deal, doctor—so I am informed—and at rather unconventional hours. . . . Is this entirely in accord with your practice of seeing patients only by appointment?"

Markham's tone was pleasant, but from the nature of his question I knew that he was decidedly irritated by the man's bland hypocrisy, and felt that he was deliberately withholding relevant information.

Before Doctor Lindquist could reply, however, the butler appeared at the door and silently indicated an extension telephone on a taboret beside the desk. With an unctuously murmured apology, the doctor turned and lifted the receiver.

Vance took advantage of this opportunity to scribble something on a piece of paper and pass it surreptitiously to Markham.

His call completed, Doctor Lindquist drew himself up haughtily, and faced Markham with chilling scorn.

"Is it the function of the district attorney," he asked distantly, "to harass respectable physicians with insulting questions? I did not know that it was illegal—or even original, for that matter—for a doctor to visit his patients."

"I am not discussing now"—Markham emphasized the adverb—"your infractions of the law; but since you suggest a possibility which, I assure you, was not in my mind, would you be good enough to tell me—merely as a matter of form—where you were last night between eleven and twelve?"

The question produced a startling effect. Doctor Lindquist became suddenl like a tautly drawn rope, and, rising slowly and stiffly, he glared, with cold intense venom, at the district attorney. His velvety mask had fallen off; and I detected another emotion beneath his repressed anger; his expression cloaked a fear, and his wrath but partly veiled a passionate uncertainty.

"My whereabouts last night is of no concern of yours." He spoke with great effort, his breath coming and going noisily.

Markham waited, apparently unmoved, his eyes riveted on the trembling man before him. This calm scrutiny completely broke down the other's self-control.

"What do you mean by forcing yourself in here with your contemptible insinuations?" he shouted. His face, now livid and motled, was hideously contorted; his hands made spasmodic movements; and his whole body shook as with a tremor. "Get out of here—you and your two myridons! Get out, before I have you thrown out!"

Markham, himself enraged now, was about to reply, when Vance took him by the arm.

"The doctor is gently hinting that we go," he said. And with amazing swiftness he spun Markham round, and led him firmly out of the room.

When we were again in the taxicab on our way back to the club, Vance sniggered gaily.

"A sweet specimen, that! Paranoia. Or, more likely, manic-depressive insanity—the folie circulaire type: recurring periods of maniacal excitement alternating with periods of the clearest sanity, don't y'know. Anyway the doctor's disorder belongs in the category of psychoses—associated with the maturation or waning of the sexual instinct. He's just the right age, too. Neurotic degenerate—that's what this oily Hippocrates is. In another minute he would have attacked you. . . My word! It's a good thing I came to the rescue. Such chaps are about as safe as rattlesnakes."

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, Mar. 7.—Technical wheat conditions caused a panic among shorts today on the Chicago board of trade closing ⅜c to ⅝c higher. Corn and oats lost their early gains and both finished unchanged to ⅛c lower. Provisions were steady and unchanged.

With a government report on farm reserves due tomorrow and favorable advices being received from southwest winter wheat areas, most traders were inclined to await developments during the morning. Sentiment, however, still leans toward the bull side and it took very little active buying to start a sharp rally just after mid-session. Export business of around 300,000 bushels of Manitobas was reported. Receipts were 22 cars and the cash market held unchanged.

There was little in the news to influence corn either way. Expectations of a bearish government report tomorrow caused many traders to sell, but the tone held firm during the morning. Receipts were fairly large at 353 cars but much of this was high grade corn from the southwest and went directly to elevator or industrial interests. The rally was therefore easy when wheat started higher. The cash market held unchanged.

Oats were dull and featureless, showing slight strength during the morning, but losing gains rapidly when attention shifted to the wheat pit. Receipts were 102 cars and the cash market went ½c to 1c lower.

TEAMS PAIRED FOR TOURNEY

SCHEDULE IN DISTRICT EVENT IS ANNOUNCED.

PICKERING AND HALE

Maryville Plays Mercer in First Round. —Play to Begin Friday Morning.

The pairings for the Northwest Missouri high school basketball tournament, which will be held under the auspices of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College here Friday and Saturday in the College gymnasium, were announced today by M. E. Seleeman, manager of the tournament. The pairings were made by the members of the athletic department of the College and the manager late yesterday.

The sixteen teams which have been certified to the district tournament are the winners of the eight sub-district tournaments held last week.

The winner and runner-up of the championship flight will be entered from this district in the state high school basketball tournament at Columbia at the University of Missouri, March 16 and 17. In case one of these teams cannot make the trip the winner of the consolation flight will be the alternate.

Mr. Seleeman said that Tad Reid, coach of the Warrensburg Teachers College, and John Bunn, K. U., will officiate the games, which will begin at 9 a. m. Friday morning and continue through each morning, afternoon and night of both days.

Maryville Plays Mercer.

The Nodaway County teams, Maryville and Pickering, have drawn Mercer and Hale, respectively. Pickering will play at 10:30 a. m. and Maryville will play Mercer at 1:30 o'clock that afternoon.

One game in the first round which will hold the center of interest is between Richmond and Breckenridge at 12:45 o'clock Friday afternoon, as these are two of the strongest teams in the tournament.

Should Maryville be able to dispose of Mercer in the first round the Spoofhounds will go up against the winner of the Oregon-Plattsburg tilt. Such favorable reports have been received concerning the Oregon aggregation that the Holt county lads are slated to make a serious bid for the championship.

Arrangements for the quartering of the basketball players and their coaches were completed yesterday, Mr. Seleeman said. As the College will not be in session this week-end, the College cafeteria will be closed and arrangements for the visiting players to eat elsewhere will be made.

The Pairings.

The pairings and schedule of play:

FRIDAY

Liberty vs. Kingston, 9 a. m.

Gilman City vs. Cameron, 9:45 a. m.

Pickering vs. Hale, 10:30 a. m.

Oregon vs. Plattsburg, 2:15 p. m.

The consolation flight first round games will begin immediately after the Oregon-Plattsburg tilt in the championship flight. The loser of the Liberty-Kingston match will play the loser of the Gilman City-Cameron contest at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. A 3:45 o'clock the loser of the Pickering-Hale game will play the loser of the Rock Port-Albany game.

The loser of the Excelsior Springs-Trenton game will play the loser of the Richmond-Breckenridge game at 4:30 o'clock and at 5:15 o'clock Friday the loser of the Mercer-Maryville game will play the loser of the Oregon-Plattsburg game.

Starting at 7 o'clock Friday night the winner of the Liberty-Kingston match will play the winner of the Gilman City-Cameron match in the first game of the second round in the championship flight. This will be followed by the second second-round game at 7:45 o'clock between the winner of the Pickering-Hale game against the winner of the Rock Port-Albany game. Two more games will be played Friday night, as at 8:30 the winner of the Excelsior Springs-Trenton game will play the winner of the Richmond-Breckenridge game and at 9:15 o'clock that night the winner of the Mercer-Maryville game will play the winner of the Oregon-Plattsburg match.

Finals Saturday Night.

No more games will be played until 10 o'clock Saturday morning when the first game of the semi-finals of the consolation flight will be played and this will be followed at 11 o'clock by the other semi-final contest of the consolation flight.

The semi-finals of the championship flight will start at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the second game of the championship semi-finals will be at 3 o'clock.

The championship of the consolation flight will be determined at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night and the champions of the championship flight will be determined beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

The teams entered in the tourney here, the counties they represent and the sub-district tournaments they won last week, are as follows:

Parnell Teams Close Season With Defeats

Parnell High School closed its scheduled basketball games at home last night, dropping both boys and girls tilts to the Ravenwood High School by close margins.

The girls game was one of the feature contests of the season, with the Parnell girls losing to Ravenwood 18 to 20. The Nodaway county champions staged a rally in the last quarter to overcome a 15 to 14 lead held by Parnell.

The Parnell boys were unable to stop the accurate Warehime, who scored 16 of Ravenwood's 20 points. Parnell boys totaled 15 points.

The girls game was a battle throughout, with Ravenwood holding a 13 to 9 advantage at the half. Parnell girls came back strong in the third quarter to make six points as Ravenwood got one. Free throws won for Ravenwood, as the Ravenwood girls made ten out of thirteen attempts while the Parnell girls failed in half of their eight attempts from the free throw line.

The Parnell girls will enter the Northwest Missouri basketball tournament for girls at Albany Friday.
